Children and young people

Which local service is the right one?

You don't always need to contact or visit your GP practice.

There are many different services and resources that can provide advice to children and young people and those who care for them.

Choosing and accessing the right service ensures everyone receives the right support, guidance and care from services that can help best.

See overleaf for information on the different services and resources you can access.

Make the right choice, choose the right service.
