Men of Greenock who Fell in the Great War 1914-1918

IN THIS BOOK ARE ENSHRINED THE
NAMES OF OVER FIFTEEN HUNDRED MEN
FROM THE TOWN OF GREENOCK WHO GAVE THEIR LIVES FOR THEIR COUNTRY IN THE GREAT WAR.

THE FIFTEEN HUNDRED

AT THE CALL OF duty they left their homes and their dear ones; native born and incomer they went forth from the town, and they came not back again. By land and sea they endured hardship and faced danger, and finally passed from the sight of men through the shining gates of Self Sacrifice, giving up their lives that we might live without dishonour

The heart knoweth its own bitterness, and we dare not even yet intrude with our sympathy into the homes where there is a chair for ever vacant and a voice for ever still. Only in silent gratitude can we honour the unreturning dead, lifting our hearts in the stillness to catch an echo of the voices we once heard, and a glimpse of the faces we once knew.

"They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old:
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn,
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them."

They are the unreturning dead. They gave all that man could give, poured out the rich blood of their Youth, thrust aside the chalice that Life held to their lips. They died—and they died for us who are left.

IN HONOUR OF THOSE WHO SERVED.

THE GLORY OF THEIR SACRIFICE is beyond our imagining and beyond our words. All that can be said of those who were spared can be said of those who died; but for the inexpressible More that the dead, in the Providence of God, were called upon to give, no words can be found that fitly signify the grandeur of the sacrifice. Only in setting forth the achievements of those who were spared can we pay tribute to those who fell.

HONOUR FOR EVER THE UNFORGOTTEN DEAD. But, we forget not those who stood by their side in times of danger; those who fought with them in the heat of battle, or with them went down to the perilous seas in ships.

We remember that there are many of whom the ultimate sacrifice was not asked, who were spared to come back to the familiar places of home; we remember how many of them still bear in mind or body grievous traces of the ordeal through which they passed; and we give them our thanks for what things they endured in our cause.

It was not given to all to serve with the fighting forces, for without shells and ships and other armament the war could not have been carried on. Therefore, when we take account of all those who laid us for ever in their debt, we remember in gratitude those who bore the burden and heat of the day in factory and workshop, labouring to serve their country's need.

IN SYMPATHY WITH THOSE WHO SUFFERED

THE SEA that flows by Greenock's doors is the very fount of her existence and the foundation of her prosperity. We are especially proud, therefore, to reflect how the services of Greenock's sons during the war maintained and strengthened the Town's connection with the sea, and with the Navy, "upon which, under the Providence of God, the honour and safety of this realm do most chiefly depend."

To those who laboured amid the clangour of the shipyards, answering the call for ships and ever more ships, we have good reason to render thanks.

HUNDREDS OF WOMEN, too, stepped gladly into place beside the machines, hardening their hands with unaccustomed toil the while they forged the weapons of victory. They served their Town and their Country nobly, no less than their sisters who worked long hours in the sick air of hospitals, lending their skill and their gracious presence to bind up the wounds of stricken men and comfort them in affliction.

"They also serve who only stand and wait" — and in time of War to wait is perhaps the hardest task of all. No fighting man looked into the eyes of danger who did not risk another's life as well as his own. No man suffered but another's heart suffered with him. All honour is due to the, women to whom years or circumstance denied the satisfaction of taking an active part in the struggle. To them the lot fell to stand and wait. It was given to them only to lend the assistance of their prayers and, by their words and letters, to nerve the arm and cheer the spirits of the men who fought.

IN PROUD AND GRATEFUL REMEMBRANCE

BEYOND THIS, these wives and mothers could do nothing. Helpless and alone, they had to face the long drawn agony of waiting and watching, tortured a score of times every day with the thought of the news the morrow might bring, going about their daily round with a cheerful countenance lest their fears might add to a sister's burden; daily hearing how Fate had robbed a neighbouring home, hiding as beneath a mask the aching dread that made the days a darkness and the nights an abyss of lonely fear. Their courage endured to the end. Without it, victory had not been ours.

TEN YEARS HAVE PASSED since the flame of war scorched across the face of Europe. Fire fuses what it does not destroy, and the fire of war fused all our people together into one solid, united, determined whole.

A new spirit was abroad in the land. Men looked into each others eyes and saw that they were brothers. For the first time many realised that they were citizens of one great Commonwealth, owing duties as well as possessing rights.

A great ideal began to shape and form in men's minds: an ideal of Peace; of a world where the Spirit of Love would be enthroned above the Spirit of Hate; of a country where men and women might live and laugh and love without fear or bitterness, where little children might grow up in the sunshine, where the shadow of war might no more darken the lives of a peaceful and contented people.

IN GLORIOUS HOPE

ONLY BY SUCH A UNITY of purpose as we maintained during the War can such an ideal be attained. Given such unity, such recognition of duties as well as rights, such realisation of our common brotherhood, and no bounds can be set to the limits of our progress along the road of happiness.

The grass grows greenest where the fire has passed. Just a little forbearance, a little charity, a little tenderness for those less fortunate than ourselves, a little of the comradeship that helped our fighting men through the stress and storm of warfare on land and sea, will make the grass grow greener and the sun shine more brightly in this dear country of ours that has been bought for us anew by the blood of those who fought and died. So, perhaps, we may make it at the end almost worthy of the price that was paid to keep it free.

Men of Greenock who Fell in the Great War 1914-1918

Notes on Greenock War Memorial

THE memorial, designed in a simple Celtic spirit in harmony with the maritime and early history of the Town, rests on a broad stepped platform, and consists of a high base course surmounted by a tall obelisk.

At the base of the obelisk and resting on the base course is the prow of a Viking ship, on the deck of which is a winged figure of Victory holding aloft the laurel wreath of victory.

At the top of the obelisk is a Celtic cross, on the face of which is a Scottish two handed sword.

The carved ornament on the Memorial follows the vigorous East coast traditions of Scottish Celtic art influenced by the fighting peoples of Scandinavia, and, as in all the finest Celtic work, animal forms have been freely used, each part having a definite and appropriate motif.

ON THE CROSS

The Fields of Battle

Right arm, A Fish for the Sea,

Left arm, A Dog for the Land.

Upper Arm, An Eagle for the Air.

SURROUNDING THE BASE

On the Southward face, flanking the ship's prow, the motifs for 1914-1918 with an interlacing laurel wreath and the Scottish Lion couchant

The other faces have the names of the Fields of War separated by motifs appropriate to them—

Men of Greenock who Fell in the Great War 1914-1918

Jutland: A Dolphin (for the North Sea) and the Danish Raven.

Zeebrugge: A Ship

THE BRONZE CHAIN PALLS

These bear the Cross of St. Andrew, and on the nailheads the Scottish Lion. The ornament illustrates the history of Scottish shipbuilding.

THE GALLEY

A warship of the Dragon Class. These are the Tenth Century equivalents of our modern ships of the line, and their earlier prototypes taught the Romans how to build for Northern Waters. The Galley used is based on the Gokstad Ship.

FOR the compilation of the list of names of the fallen contained in this book the War Memorial Committee appointed a Sub Committee, consisting of Mr. R. A. Reid and Mr. Ryrie Orr, together with Mr. Andrew Nimmo, Town Clerk, as Hon. Secretary, to co operate with Mr. A. K. Macdonald who had agreed to complete the record which had been commenced by the late Mr. John Harvie.

The Sub Committee completed the list from the obituary notices in the newspapers and from information supplied by Churches, Societies, Clubs, Schools, and Employers of Labour. The various records published by the War Office of regiments likely to contain the names of Greenock men were also searched.

Copies were made of the preliminary list and these were publicly exhibited, and relatives and others interested were asked to suggest emendations. Thereafter members of the Sub Committee visited many homes to secure as far as possible a correct record.

The Committee were advised throughout by Mr. Pittendrigh Macgillivray, LL.D., R.S.A., King's Sculptor in Ordinary for Scotland, and Mr. G. Washington Browne, R.S.A., President of the Royal Scottish Academy

The erection of the Memorial was entrusted to Messrs Wright & Wylie, Architects, Glasgow. The Sculptor was Alexander Proudfoot, A.R.S.A., Glasgow.

The Builders were Messrs Matthew Muir & Coy., Ltd., Kilmarnock.

The publication of this book at a moderate price is largely due to a very generous offer made by the proprietors of the Greenock Telegraph.

For the foreword the Committee is indebted to Mr. R. J. Erskine Orr.
